OVERVIEW

The Firemen's Association of the State of New York invites departments and organizations across the state to honor their best fire safety advocates with a nomination for Fire Safety Educator of the Year. The nomination may be for an individual, a group of individuals or an organization that collectively promotes fire and life safety. Each year, FASNY's Fire Prevention and Life Safety Committee will recognize an educator, a group or an organization with dedication to fire prevention and the safety of the residents in their community.

CRITERIA

Eligible educators should:

- Be nominated by a fire department, company, sectional or county organization. Applications must include additional documentation (see the instructions below).
- Demonstrate innovative ways of presenting fire prevention and life safety education to the public. Please include:
 - » Overall program content
 - » The program's impact on the public and its success
 - » Duration of the program

NOTE: FASNY award winners may be publicly promoted in press releases and print publications as well as on television, radio or the Web. The Association reserves the right to use the person's image for publicity, including – but not limited to – print, broadcast and Web/social media. The recipient may be expected to be available for photo opportunities, television appearances and other promotional events. In the event the recipient does not agree to these terms, the name may be withdrawn.

Instructions

Please submit the application with supporting documents that:

1. Describe the method used to present the fire prevention and life safety education program to the public. Include the program content, success of the program and duration of the program.
2. Describe any involvement with fire prevention and life safety programs and how they've impacted the public.
3. List in depth the activities that make the nominee stand out among others in the field of fire prevention and life safety education.

Note: Once selected, the recipient of this award MUST submit a digital photo to be used in FASNY's promotional materials, including – but not limited to – The Volunteer Firefighter magazine, press releases, monthly electronic communications and Web/social media sites. Visit www.fasny.com/photos for photo submission guidelines.
